Dear Mr. Hoffa:

Mr. Herbert Heilmann of Local #153 has informed me of his recent conversation with you in connection with granting combination loads to the brewing industry in Newark, New Jersey. In order that you may have the full facts and the reasons behind our request for this delivery arrangement, we will submit to you a brief which will set forth the problems each of the breweries face in not having the advantage of combination loads.

Preparation of this brief will necessarily take a little time. As Chairman of the Labor Committee for the New Jersey Brewers Association, I feel I should explain our delay in getting in touch with you.

We are extremely desirous of securing relief from the competitive disadvantages we have been under for a number of years compared to the New York breweries who have combination loads.

We will be in touch with you in the very near future.

Very truly yours,

Howard E. Grigg

Dear Mr. Bedenhansen:

Please accept my sincere apologies for the long delay in acknowledging your remembrance at Christmas. I can assure you that the Barton Ale was thoroughly enjoyed even though I had to rely on the taste of my guests, since I cannot be considered a judge, having had no testing practice along these lines. It was the enthusiastic opinion of those who partook that it was a very excellent beverage.

With warm wishes, I am

Sincerely yours,

Dear Mr. Beck:

With the Christmas season upon us once again, my brother Otto and I regret that we are unable to personally extend our holiday greetings to all our friends. We would like, however, to observe the spirit of Christmas by sending you several bottles of our rare, old Burton Ale.

Really a full-flavored barley wine, this ale was brewed and laid down by Ballantine 20 years ago to be used only for Holiday remembrances such as this. We have always considered it a truly private stock for the enjoyment of our special friends.

I hope that this small token of remembrance will add to your holiday pleasure. With it, of course, goes my brother's and my best wishes for a very Merry Christmas and a Happy, Prosperous New Year.

Cordially,

P. BALLANTINE & SONS
